

INTRODUCTION

Insurance technology, also known as InsurTech, is an industry composed of companies that use technology to make insurance services more effective. InsurTech is an integral part of the global FinTech revolution to bring more innovation to the financial sector in general. Communicating & engaging with stakeholders in the insurance industry has become more important than ever.

Consumers trust recommendations from a third party more often than a brand itself. And it makes sense if you think about it in a more personal context. When you align with an influence, not only do they bring their audience, but they also bring their audience's network as well. So if you have clients in from insurance space here is the quick list for you. This will help you connect on insurance industry influencers and grab the latest information as you follow them.

Follow them all at once, just subscribe to our twitter list:
